Description

The Journal of Hospitality and Tourism Insights (JHTI) aims to enhance the ongoing conversation among hospitality and tourism practitioners, academics and professionals. JHTI publishes contemporary research in hospitality and tourism.

Aims & scope

Our editorial policy focuses on publishing current and cutting-edge research in the hospitality and tourism industry worldwide. Similar to its sister journal (IJCHM), JHTI welcomes different disciplines, perspectives, and methods. All theoretical, empirical and applied manuscripts related to various sectors within the hospitality and tourism industry will be considered for publication.

Manuscripts can be based on theoretical arguments, empirical findings, case studies, and/or methodological developments. Qualitative, quantitative and mixed methodology submissions are all welcome. Manuscripts related to planning, accounting, finance, information systems and technology, marketing, consumer behaviour, human resources, economics, international business, operations, strategic management, innovation, entrepreneurship, sustainability and green issues, socio-cultural aspects, corporate social responsibility, stakeholder engagement, planning and development and ethics in hospitality and tourism are considered for publication. Contributions are particularly welcome from practitioners, professionals and academics working in private, public and non-profit organizations globally.

Manuscripts submitted for publication in JHTI should share the following attributes:

Precise and clear description of the research problem or question.

Concise but clear and critical literature review on the researched topic.

Use and justification of appropriate research methods.

Clear and concise presentation of study results.

Strong conclusions and implications for theory and practice.

Refers to seminal and recently published studies in the field.

Between 6,000 and 9,000 words in length including references, tables, figures and appendices.
